'Men in Black: Alien Assault' Is Now Available from Ojom

The game is based on the movie

Ojom, a well-known creator and global publisher of mobile games, announced recently the launch of the mobile game adaptation of the alien-thwarting classic, Men in Black. Packed with intergalactic action lurking around every corner, the classic movie comes on mobile phones. Are you prepared to give up your identity and put on the last suit you'll ever wear? Rumors are developing across New York that people are starting to disappear without a trace. The press is having a field day reporting that unidentified creatures are linked to the disappearing population. Your mission is to head up the investigation into these reports and find out if we are dealing with illegal alien immigrants. Your first lead brings you to the sewers of New York where alien activity is rife, so be sure to carry your neuralyzer, we don't want any civilian witnesses. Marc Busse, Sales Manager at Ojom GmbH, said: "I've always wanted to use a Neuralizer and now I can. With all the action of the hit movie on your mobile phone, you can hunt down aliens and solve crimes along the way. Men in Black - Alien Assault is an exhilarating game packed with power ups, secret levels, freaky weapons and a world threatening alien conspiracy. And this time it's up to us to save the planet and kick some alien butt." Rogue aliens, massive power ups, fantastic weapons and a load of challenging levels are waiting for you. Look out for alien artefacts and new weapons - as your investigation unfolds, you will appreciate their very unique features. Improve your final score, earn extra bonus points and unlock secret levels in the Story Mode to blast even more aliens back to wherever they came from. Men in Black: Alien Assault forms part of a series of games based on Hit Movie Classics.
