

By: Catalin Bocanu, Web News Editor

A Free Video Converter for Any OS

Movavi Online

Usually, in order to get any video from video sharing websites and process it certain specialized software must be installed on your computer. Depending on your operating system, chances are that the conversion software may be hard to configure, the computer hardware wouldn't help you obtain the desired conversion speed or errors are received during the video processing operation. The existing free on-line video conversion services represent an acceptable alternative for desktop based conversion software. Movavi Online video conversion service allows you to convert almost any type of video file (existing on your computer or on video sharing websites like YouTube) to other commonly used file formats like .mp4, .avi, .flv, .3gp and more. The service requires you to use only five files or web links so that the total upload limit can be 100 MB in one session. The maximum length of one file is restricted to ten minutes. The major advantage is provided by the presence of video merge option. The Movavi Online video conversion service allows you to create a single file containing all of the inputted video files, even if the initial files have different formats. One file can be converted to various other output formats but in different sessions. If you do not have access to certain video sharing websites, you are still able to get a certain movie through this video conversion service in the desired file format type. Movavi Online widgets offer you the possibility to integrate the service with your Facebook or iGoogle page or even add it to a website. The main benefit of using this video conversion service is represented by the fact that you will always be able to convert video files on any operating system without having to install additional software (a modern web browser and an Internet connection are all you need).