A Screech Sex-Tape Might Ring a 'Bell'

Dustin Diamond, the last man one would want to see naked

If anybody thought that seeing Paris Hilton, Colin Farrel, Tommy Lee and Kid Rock in the nude, doing their thing in front of a camera would be enough, think again! Dustin Diamond, who played the part of the geeky Screech in the 'Saved by the Bell' popular sitcom has one big surprise for those people out there who still refer to him as 'yeah, he's that skinny guy who played the goofy guy in "Saved by the Bell"'. Diamond is again riding the press wave, having made a spectacular comeback in the public eye when he initiated the 'Save My House' campaign and, afterwards, when he claimed he was assaulted by a woman in a hotel room. So, no comeback in the movies for him... Well, maybe this would do: the stand-up comedian stars in his very own home made sex tape, originally titled 'Saved by the Smell'. David Hans Schmidt, the agent who secured all the videotapes on the market, featuring celebrities having sex, confirms his latest acquisition is a tape with Diamond that he is trying to sell to the major adult film distributors. Without getting too graphic (he wouldn't want to spoil the surprise), the agent says that the footage shows Screech with two unknown women, involved in an act generally known as 'dirty Sanchez'. 'Just when you think you have seen everything in this business, mankind has raised the bar another notch. Or lowered it', he said in a recent interview. He then added that he is currently in talks with Larry Flint ('Hustler'), Steven Hirsch ('Vivid') and other adult-oriented companies to sell the video. Unlike in cases of the other afore mentioned celebrities, Dustin Diamond will not try to prevent the tape from going public. To everybody's surprise, his manager, Roger Paul, said he is actually hoping that seeing Screech getting at it would help him shake off the Screech typecast and establish him as the serious stand-up comedian that he is. 'I haven't seen the tape. I've heard rumors. Dustin has been trying to escape the Screech typecast. So this may help get more bookings', Paul added. If the tape does go public, Dustin Diamond would thus become the second star of the popular series to bare it all in front of the camera. Elizabeth Berkley was the first one to go naked in an attempt to get rid of the 'Saved by the Bell' curse, in the poorly received 'trashpiece' 'Show Girls' (1996).
