

8 June 2005

By:

Actor Christian Bale wants an R-rated Batman movie

Actor Christian Bale, who's starring in the latest movie "Batman Begins", declared it's time for an R-rated Batman movie

Actor Christian Bale, who's starring in the latest film "Batman Begins", declared it's time for an R-rated Batman movie, to reveal the dark sexy side of the comic book superhero. Bale added that he's urging the producers to make two versions of the movie, one for children and one for adults. Bale says, "I do think there is a lot of room for, like, an R-rated Batman. It's a little bit tricky to broach the sex aspect of the story when you want kids to come see this as well. I mean, we still like for a 12-year-old to come see it and enjoy it. "I think it would be very interesting, myself, to do maybe one version, which can be both PG-13 and R - two different cuts of it."The (Batman) graphic novel certainly dove into his private life because it's fascinating. He's got to do something sexual at some point. I think it could be an interesting storyline to take somewhere."