Hollywood star Angelina Jolie has reportedly been spotted spending more than $1500 on provocative lingerie and other sexy toys and books

Hollywood star Angelina Jolie has reportedly been spotted spending more than $1500 on provocative lingerie and other sexy toys and books, at the upscale London erotic emporium, Coco De Mer. According to the Mirror, the 30-year-old Tomb Raider star is a regular at the erotic emporium. Angelina also looked through the books on sexual positions and picked up blindfolds and feather ticklers. "Angelina's not embarrassed by anything at the shop - she loves it all and buys quite a lot. She's in here whenever she's in the country. But her most recent trip a few weeks ago was the most she has ever spent. Brad's one lucky guy," said a source. Angelina bought sexy, lacy underwear and sex books. She loves looking through the new underwear. There are all sorts there: panties, G-strings, half-cup bras which are all incredibly erotic. She likes them all," said the tattler. "She also loves anything that's made of leather and they sell lots of basques and bras made out of black leather." Yesterday, British TV presenters Vernon Kay and Tess Daly, Angelina's neighbor, confessed Brad Pitt has moved into her house in UK. "It's all very cosy and they're a lovely couple. I see them a lot I popped in recently after I hit my tennis ball over the fence Angelina is keen on exotic roses and she's been teaching me about the rare ones".
