

7 February 2006

By: Adina Gheorghe, Entertainment Editor

Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt to Get Married in Dublin

The Brangelina couple will have their nuptials this year in Ireland

After so many rumors about a to-be-wedding, Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie are now reportedly set to tie the knot in Ireland this year. The Brangelina couple are said to plan having their nuptials in a secret venue near Dublin. Britain's "News of the World" newspaper claims that the two lovers and future parents of their first offspring wish to have a private romantic ceremony in the Irish capital. Even if last month the couple was rumored not to wed at all, now the latest reports say that the two are set for marriage. In the past months the two stars have been discussed and rumored so often that we can barely know what to believe. But there are some certain facts: they are happily living together with their two adoptive children (Brad is Maddox and Zahara's legal guardian now, after he adopted them). They are also expecting a baby together, Brad was reported to ask information about a venue in Italy in order to organize the wedding ceremony there, they are about to build a home in the US... So if all this is true, why shouldn't a marriage be the same?!