Angelina Jolie's Son Maddox Is Calling Brad Pitt Daddy

It appears Angelina Jolie's children got close to Brad Pitt over the last weeks, calling him daddy.

It appears Angelina Jolie's children have got close to Brad Pitt over the last weeks, calling him daddy. According to America's Us Weekly magazine, Maddox started to cry during the shooting of an Edwin Jeans commercial with Angelina Jolie, saying "Where's my daddy?". It is a known fact Brad Pitt wanted children. Three weeks ago, Brad was photographed teaching the 3-year old Maddox to ride a bike and acting like a real dad. "They looked like a complete happy family and Brad seemed to love playing dad", an insider said. And it seems that the recent adopted Zahara awakes the same feelings in Brad. Dr Tsegaye Berhe, the one who took care of Zahara and the adoption procedures, revealed to Britain's News of the World newspaper: "They were like any couple looking at their child for the first time. "Angelina wiped a tear from her eye. That's when Brad put his arm around Angelina and whispered, 'How do you like your new mummy and daddy?'" "They were so happy. Then they turned to me and said, 'This makes us a whole family.'"
