Angie's Fainting Spells in India

The actress fainted three times while shooting for 'A Mighty Heart'

It seems that Angelina is not good only at learning and then saying lines. According to various media reports, on the set of her latest movie, she got so into character that she was overwhelmed by emotion that she literally fainted. The strange thing is that it happened three times in three days, something that the beautiful Jolie never went through before. A close friend of the couple (Angelina is in India with Brad Pitt) talked to the local press and revealed that, as she was shooting for a scene, she fainted and collapsed to the floor. 'Angelina was in the middle of filming her latest movie, when something went wrong. The scene she was shooting on October 10th was emotional. In it, her character, Marianne Pearl, learns that her husband, Wall Street Journal reporter Daniel Pearl, has been killed by terrorists in Pakistan. Angie literally collapsed while filming it. She threw herself into it and was overcome with emotion', the insider said. Alarmingly, this is the third time that the actress lost consciousness: the first time, it happened on October 8, after the troublesome rickshaw ride and the second, the very next morning, as she was getting out of bed. The same source claims that Brad was always there for her and that she recovered immediately after the fainting spell, but Brad is very concerned about Angelina's health. As usual with such statements coming from 'close friends' of celebrities, Angelina and Brad did not make any comment when contacted by the media.
