Billy Corgan Is Living with Courtney Love

The rock star attempts to relaunch her music career

Former wife of late Kurt Cobain, frontman of rock legend Nirvana, is finally out of debts and no longer in danger of going bankrupt. In April, Love sold 25 percent ownership of Nirvana's music catalog and bought herself a new mansion in the Hollywood Hills. Desperate and pressed by time, she is currently working on her latest album and she invited Smashing Pumpkins singer and producer, Billy Corgan, to move in with her in order to speed up production for the new material. Love told Fox News that "not many people know this, but Billy's been living with me for the last four months". Apparently, she, Billy and Frances Bean (her 13 year old daughter) share the same house (equipped with a personal ballroom), but the shocking rocker sais that they live in separate wings of the mansion.
