British Babe Set for 'Baywatch' Movie

Keeley Hazell will bring her bouncing boobs in a theater near you in 2008

The idea of making a long-running series into a feature film has proven in many cases to be a very poorly inspired one because, well, most of these remakes suck big time. But some people still hope they can cash in from the hit that 'Baywatch' was and, accordingly, they are gearing for a new project. The first step is as good as made: one of the babes that is to don the red suit is Page 3 babe, launched by British newspaper 'The Sun', Keeley Hazell. Apparently, she got the attention of the producers after gracing the covers of 'Playboy' under the huge caption 'Babe of the Month'. Rumor has it (Keeley's involvement in the project hasn't been yet confirmed by an official source) that the producers were so impressed with her body and with the way she looks in a red bikini that they already made their mind to have her. As you well notice, acting skills are not necessarily required - a thing we can understand since the movie is more about girls running on the beach than about anything else (or, at least, the viewers are more interested in that). 'They [the 'Baywatch' people] said some really flattering things, which was nice, but I won't let it go to my head. It would be a great opportunity to try some acting and I'll see where it takes me.', Keeley is quoted as saying by contactmusic. Production on the movie is scheduled to begin later this year, in time for an early 2008 release. Until 'Baywatch' gets the green light, the pin-up girl has to solve her sex tape-related legal issues. A video of her engaging in oral sex with her boyfriend surfaced on the Internet (if you're interested, as of yesterday it became available for download... for free!) and Keeley has already talked to the police to start an investigation to determine who could have caused the leak. 'This was a private video that was taken a long time ago. I never meant for it to be seen in public It's a disgraceful invasion of my privacy.', the blonde bombshell told 'The Sun'. So, 'Playboy', a sex tape and now 'Baywatch'. Yes, it makes sense now!
