

28 June 2006

By: Elena Gorgan, Entertainment News Editor

Britney Naked, Pregnant and Desperate

Trashy trailer girl goes to new depths...

Remember how in August 1991, Demi Moore posed naked and pregnant for the cover of 'Vanity Fair' and came out perfectly, even sexier than before? We sure do and, apparently, so does Britney Spears. But 'Vanity' didn't want her...Despite pleading for privacy and time-off from the limelight, that girl does everything in her powers to appear in every possible magazine or tabloid. No sense recalling now all her 'endeavors' to stay away from the media. Suffice to say that all her actions are similar to, excuse me for saying, 'spitting in the wind': it all comes back threefold. Brit's latest gaffe, even more criticized than dying her hair black, was that of posing naked and pregnant for the cover of 'Harper's Bazaar', that will be issued in August this year. True, the photos are classy enough but, unfortunately, we can't force ourselves to say the same about the person in them. Pregnant, overdressed and, occasionally, without any clothes at all, Spears comes off as a desperate, trashy and fat woman who no longer knows what to do next to please her disappointed fans and to appease the public opinion. For God's sake, she even included little Sean in one of the photos! Don't worry, she isn't naked in it, but he is...The pictures shocked the entire world, as those of Demi never did and everybody is wondering: what next? Maybe walking butt naked on the streets to show people that you've got nothing to hide?