

17 November 2005

By: Simona Gherman, Entertainment Editor

Britney Spears - A Mother Again?

The medium says so

That is to happen within six months, if the predictions of a medium Britney sought advice from will prove to be accurate. Reportedly, the famous singer often visits a psychic, whenever she wants to make plans for the future. But who is to be the father this time? Kevin Federline, her husband and the father of her first child, Sean Preston, born in September this year? The odds are very much against it. The divorce papers are ready to be filled, Britney took care of that. But it is not the singer's wish to fill them; she would still very much want to fix things with Kev. She might be forced to do so though, as he won't change his behavior. Nightclubs are more familiar to him than the pair's Malibu home. Maybe because Britney is yelling instead of talking? The issue right now is her being jealous over Kevin's ex, Shar Jackson. Anyway, the two are living together for the moment, Britney's publicist is quiet, and only the future can tell.