

By: Elyse Morgan, Entertainment News Editor

Citizen's Arrest for Eva Longoria!

For committing a third degree fashion crime

Do you remember the hottest 'desperate wife' ever? We don't know where she is right now or what happened to her but, in case you were wondering (and we have great doubts as to that), this is how the beautiful Eva really looks like. Probably we always thought that those we see on the screen (be it small or big) were perfect human beings, in every sense of the word, who don't have to face the problems we are confronted with in everyday life. And, we might as well say, when we are proven the contrary, when we are convinced that things are never that easy, we can't help ourselves from feeling disappointment. Not because stars also have their own issues to deal with, but because of a certain sense that we were, in fact, intentionally misled into thinking otherwise. The same goes for Eva Longoria, the woman who, despite her petite stature, has managed to amaze the world with her grace, style and beauty. But maybe the new face of L'Oreal should think twice before getting out of her house without her make-up on. Or, at least some foundation (from L'Oreal, of course) to cover all those nasty spots.