Death Race, the mobile game
Gameloft / Universal

The new game is available as of now

The France-based Gameloft has just announced the release of a brand new "action meets racing" game for mobile phones, named Death Race. Developed after the signing of a new partnership with Universal Pictures, Death Race is inspired by the action movie with the same title, which will debut on August 22. Players who dare to start the Death Race mobile game will enter the world of extreme racing, where only the toughest participants can win. The game's Story Mode features five episodes that bring various challenges: "Race", "Eliminator", "Shooter", "Boss Battles" and "Rampage", all of which offer a blend of racing and shooting. There is also a Quick Race Mode, where you can ramble on and race freely on unlocked levels. The game includes seven different cars that you can choose from, as well as six power-ups (homing missiles and rockets, for example), hence there's a lot of action waiting for players. Talking about the new title, Gonzague de Vallois, Senior Vice President of Publishing at Gameloft, declared, "Having the exclusive mobile game available just weeks before the launch of one of summer's most anticipated films is a great opportunity for us. The Death Race mobile game offers fans a great way to experience their favorite film, both before and after its debut, by adding an intense interactive component to the movie". Jeremy Laws, Senior Vice President, Mobile and Broadband for Universal Pictures Digital Platforms Group, continued, "We have an exceptional, collaborative relationship with Gameloft and we continue to be impressed by the high-quality, graphically-rich mobile games they produce from our films. The Death Race storyline is inherently game ready, and we believe that a lot of the film's fans will be gamers who will love Gameloft's mobile game". Death Race for mobiles is available as of now from Gameloft's official website and can be downloaded for prices starting at $4.
