

17 January 2007

By: Elena Gorgan, Entertainment News Editor

Demi Goes Naked Again

Probably for the last time...

Even at 41, Demi Moore is still gorgeous. She is also the woman who created this frenzy of starlets posing naked while pregnant. Then again, knowing the way her body looks, it's no wonder that the likes of Britney Spears wanted to imitate her, is it? For her birthday, Demi gave herself the best present ever: a last naked photo shoot, despite her husband's opposition. The 'Striptease' star was also just recently featured on the cover of 'Vanity Fair' (where she first shed off all her clothes) but she refused to pose naked again for it, even if the editor of the magazine and the photographer insisted. In the past, Demi graced the cover of 'Vanity Fair' in 'various stages of undress', including the photos of her pregnant and the one in which she wears a 'suit' painted directly on her skin. But, this time, she felt that she couldn't go all the way and that her body 'was not up to the sort of scrutiny it could handle 15 years ago', Graydon Carter told 'In Touch' magazine. Even if she refused to strip for 'Vanity', Demi did have a surprise present for herself: she called photographer Mario Testino and asked him to come to her house to take a bunch of naked pics of her on her 41th birthday. And, yes, she was naked, but there was no nudity, the actress says in an interview, after revealing that her husband, Ashton Kutcher forbade her to strip. 'Of course Ashton said, "No nudes", and the first thing Mario said to us is "Let's get naked". Mario has an incredible sense of play, which makes the experience more enjoyable', Demi confessed. One of the photos was then used for the photographer's latest book 'Let Me In' so that means that this is probably the only way the public is going to see Demi naked (but not in the nude).