

5 September 2005

By: Andrei Boghiu, Video and PC Games Editor

FREE Sony PSP Wallpapers!

Plasma Design offers 22 free wallpapers to PSP owners

We're hereby describing the first 7 of them; you'll have to discover the other 15! Condensed First wallpaper, it's based on a photo sent by a friend to the author himself. Photoshop CS was used to crop, clone and alter the focus and coloration of the image. It was also toned down a lot as the original was too bright to be used comfortably as a desktop wallpaper. Caustic A simple photo taken during a family holiday in Spain this month using a Canon Ixus under natural daylight. The hue was shifted slightly and toned down the brightness to make it more suitable for use as desktop wallpaper. Dewdrop As spring is just around the corner, Dewdrop would be a fitting addition to the collection. Division This image is an attempt to illustrate the process by which a cell divides to form two daughter cells. Upon completion of the process, each daughter cell contains the same genetic material as the original cell and roughly half of its cytoplasm. Fusion 'Fusion' is actually a spin-off of another project the author is currently working on which is a diagram of the solar system. Frozen This wallpaper is one of a pair of images based upon a hot/cold theme. (Both versions are included in the zip file). They were created using Bryce 5 with no post-processing in Photoshop. Snowflake This is a new version of the wallpaper the author created to mark Christmas 2003. He included the original image in the downloadable zip file for those who prefer a little more color. The complete collection of wallpapers can be downloaded from here. SCREENSHOTS