Lindsay brings her hotness in the Jill Stuart ads. That was before the bust.

Faux Lindsay Stoned Video Strikes Gold on the Net

It was bound to happen, so we might as well enjoy it!

Lindsay Lohan's legal and personal woes are only getting bigger and bigger by the day: not only has she been arrested for the second time for driving under the influence (only days after completing a rehabilitation program for drug and alcohol addiction), but she's also being sued by private individuals for damages caused in the previous car crashes that she's been involved in. And, to cap it all off, the freckled one is even in danger of spending some time in jail...All in all, things are not looking good, to say the least. While, on one hand, we have Lindsay's mother trying to stop the media from making her daughter the butt of all jokes (and simultaneously inviting the media into her personal life!) and her father who blames his daughter's downward spiral on the bad influence of his former wife, on the other hand, we have the media and... let's just say that Lindsay's antics have been going on for far too long for anyone to still give her the tiniest bit of credit. Even if, say, LiLo gets out of this one with a clear face and not do time in jail and even manages to find a way to work through all her issues, it is very unclear whether she'll still be having an acting career as before. The same goes for her fans. Even if the critics say that Lindsay was a blooming talent that never got to fully manifest herself because she was still young (mind you, that's what the most kind-hearted ones state), the fans were not so willing to look upon her second bust and the way she had been acting lately with the same tolerant eyes. For many, both members of the audience and critics, Lindsay as an actress officially died the moment she got completely wasted behind the wheel of that car, allegedly kidnapped three other persons and then engaged in a mad car chase that ended in the police parking lot. This is basically the whole idea behind this clip. And that of making light of a situation that, for some, is tragic enough to shed crocodile tears for it. The video (which is a spoof, in case I forgot to mention it) shows a Lindsay impersonator replicating a day in the life of the famed actress. And she does that by combining elements of Lindsay's alleged drug use with David Hasselhoff's inability to eat a burger from the floor because he's too drunk. The result? Internet gold! Just watch the clip below and see for yourselves what the whole deal is all about. Also, if Lindsay's life was anything similar to this, then she had it very tough. 'Wanna make out? Go buy me a brown baby'. Priceless!
