

8 November 2006

By: Elena Gorgan, Entertainment News Editor

Finally, Britney's Boobs Are Back!

Here goes something else that K-Fed won't be seeing anymore...

So, Britney filed for divorce from that joke of a husband of hers and, now that she's free, her boobs are also free to haunt us and fire up the imagination of thousand of men! Speaking of that, I can't but say: thank god for the Return of the Boobies. It's been months since the next to be ex-Mrs. Federline had featured in our 'Fashion Police' category for some of the worse fashion crimes you can imagine: from being dressed and looking like a piece of white trash or (even worse) a street girl, to wearing the funkiest hats created by man and posing naked. It was about time that something nice could be said about her, right? So, two days ago (Monday night), Britney Spears made a surprise appearance on David Letterman's show and shocked the world with her new rocking post-baby body. She even went for her old blonde and a much shorter hair-do. All in all: beautiful! These two photos were taken as she was leaving the building and heading towards her car and it was then that people got to see something they didn't have the time to notice while on Letterman's: Britney brought sexy AND her boobs back! For a mother of two and knowing the outrageous eating habits she got while pregnant, we have to admit that she's beginning to look hot again. Almost as hot as she did before she hooked up with K-Fed... Still, we're all waiting to see more of her (and not necessarily breasts). Keep you posted.