

14 November 2007

By: Elena Balan, Communications News Editor

Nokia N82
Nokia

Finally, Nokia N82 Officially Unveiled and Out on the Market

For 450 euro

Nokia N82 has just got official after a long waiting period and hit the market in a great rush. The greatest thing about this release is that customers will not have to wait for long until owning one for themselves, as the phone is already available in selected stores. The waiting period for Nokia N82 has been long enough and filled with leaked images and information, which made it just about time for it to hit the market. So, no more leaked images and taunting from now on, as the follow-up of Nokia N81 is finally out on the market. The handset proves to be a highly evolved multimedia computer that offers its user solutions for a wide variety of services. This includes high quality captures, navigation and internet browsing, all looking to reach top levels. Only few mobile phones out there can pride with having a 5 megapixel camera and Nokia N82 is one of them. The handset also packs a Xenon flash, Carl Zeiss optics and internet connectivity, which makes it possible to transfer the captures at fast rates or even upload them on the personal blog. Moreover, the phone also features A-GPS support for navigation. "In addition to the high-end camera, the Nokia N82 also enables you to navigate and discover new places, enjoy your music, browse the web, play games, chat online and be part of the global web 2.0 community wherever you go. Thanks to the wireless broadband connectivity, convergence and yet again increased performance, the Nokia N82 is all you need in your pocket!", states in a highly subjective manner Satu Ehrnrooth, head of Nokia Nseries Cameras Category, Multimedia, Nokia. Nokia N82 comes with the new content driven 3D multimedia menu and includes a convenient orientation sensor that rotates the user interface automatically between horizontal and portrait mode. The feature has proved to be highly popular with the iPhone and has also been used by Sony Ericsson with its K850i handset. Nokia N82 is available now in key markets, Nokia says, with an estimated pre-tax, unsubsidized sales price of approximately 450 euros.