

By: ~~Carla Bocanu~~ Bocanu, Web News Editor

Get A YouTube-Like Website For Free

Video Sharing Websites on StartYourTube

You do not have to have programming knowledge to get your own free video sharing and social networking website similar to YouTube from StartYourTube.com, which is a content publishing platform having common features with YouTube and MySpace. "StartYourTube.com allows users to gain total control of the video sharing space from the look and feel to advertising and revenue," notes Jean-Phillipe Gousse, CEO of StartYourTube.com. "Users are now able to organize the video sharing space and blogosphere environments into niche categories totally controlled by them and their networks. The platform is 100% scalable for size, user activity and bandwidth, and offers search, video and blog sharing, rating, ranking and playlist functionalities." After creating a free account, you will get a free domain name (or you can use your own domain name) and 2 GB of storage for your video files and other type of content. The domain and website content can be sold without the need of any permission from the company that owns StartYourTube. From the administration panel you can manage users, files, blogs and all website appearance settings, as well as ads configuration (the revenue sharing program will bring every website owner advertising revenues). Also, the website can be personalized with your own logo or image and colors from certain color schemes. This web based service allows you to create an unlimited number of blogs. The entire video sharing platform is search engine friendly. The content can be promoted by using various methods, like viral sharing, direct linking, messaging and so on. Given the importance of video sharing and blogging websites from the revenue generation and user experience point of view, this free web service opens new development directions for the social networking world.