

20 December 2007

By: Bogdan Popa, Security and Search Engines Editor

jupiterimages.com

Infected on Christmas? No Problem! Here's a Toll-Free Phone Number!

Free phone support powered by CyberDefender

Christmas is not only that time of the year when you get the chance to spend some time with your family, but it is also the perfect moment to buy lots of products at special prices. Today's piece of news is about a new Christmas special offering as the folks at CyberDefender decided to provide expert support for all users encountering difficulties with their computers even on December 26th. This includes spyware, malware or all sorts of infections, computer configuration or any problem encountered when using one of your devices. All you have to do is to call (877) 377-3765 and explain your problem. "More often than not, during the holiday season too many computer users spend their valuable time-off setting up new computers that they received as a gift or trying to append new hardware or software to an existing system rather than spending this time with loved ones. This holiday season CyberDefender is giving Santa a helping hand by offering a Free Day of Tech Support and Setup", said Alan Wallace, senior vice president, CyberDefender Corporation. As everybody expects a busy Christmas season when it comes to security threats, spyware, phishing scams and other infections, we may see lots of affected users looking for help. From this point of view, such a support service would be welcomed and, as long as users can solve their problems, more and more consumers would try it. The offering comes with a free phone call per user, so you won't have to pay in case you wish to receive support. "Setting up a new computer, removing preinstalled applications you will never need and making sure that everything is setup properly and secure can be time consuming and frequently leads to mistakes. Our world-class technical support staff is fully equipped to optimize your hardware to work best for its user", Alan Wallace added. "This offer is not only limited to new hardware it is also available to those who need it for other reasons for their existing systems. We encourage users to try us and judge for themselves. This free day of tech support and setup is hassle-free, a benefit many of CyberDefender's new security suites have become accustomed to, 24/7/365", Wallace continued.