

25 February 2008

By: Monica Gaza, Entertainment News Editor

So, is this Zac or not?
Dlisted

Is This Zac Efron Half Naked, Kissing Another Man?

Friend or no friend, we demand to know what's going on

Now, Zac, what's going on here? Are you trying to stir the pot and get yourself some fresh media controversy too? Oh, I see – little Vanessa is making you feel all neglected again. I mean yes, I can pretty much see your point – there's always scandal cooking up as far as she's concerned, and we all know that. Just think back a little: we've had the Vanessa Hudgens naked picture scandal, which brought us all a free pass to the tween sensation's lady bits (which, as we know, were supposed to remain private but didn't): then we have the Vanessa Hudgens sex tape controversy, and while no tape has surfaced to this day, there have been many scattered media reports that such an infamous recording actually exists. And then there's just the "bad Disney girl" aura that makes me think that Vanessa will make a nice Playboy playmate one day soon...

Well, how could little Zac, the biggest teen idol alive according to his manager, stay far behind on the controversy road? We all know that given his rather feminine allure and the certified fact that he's wearing a lot more make-up than any man should ever be allowed to wear, there have been rumors (persistent ones for all that) claiming that Zac is hiding a few skeletons in his closet and is refusing to come clean about his sexuality. In other words, there are people out there claiming that he is gay. There's absolutely nothing in the world wrong with that – I'll say it again, we're talking rumors, smoke and mirrors – but apparently, there are some people out there pretty pissed off at the thought that Zac isn't coming clean about how he feels about guys in general. So, you can imagine that when this picture came out allegedly depicting a half-naked Zac getting all sentimental and kissing another half-naked dude on the cheek, we all jumped on it like stink on cheese.

Well, that may have been a little too literal – but anyway, have a look at the photo in question and let me hear your take on it. Is that guy planting the kiss Zac? I think it sort of looks like him. And the other guy – I don't know his name, but check out the second photo. It shows Zac with his brother Dylan (guy in purple hoodie) and another friend doing a little male bonding at the end of November last year. I think the guy in the black and white T-shirt from the second photo looks a lot like the guy the alleged Zac is kissing in the first photo. So it may very well be that we're simply dealing with a friendly photo, snapped while two friends were enjoying a little one-on-one quality time together. Or then again, maybe not. What do you think?