Jennifer Aniston Made Peace With Her Mother

Aniston: "I'm just happy she's still here."

Actress Jennifer Aniston, recently divorced from Hollywood hunk Brad Pitt, revealed during an interview that she made peace with her mother Nancy. Aniston, 36, became estranged from her mother after she made "unflattering comments" about her daughter on a US TV chat show in 1996 and wrote about Jennifer's childhood in "From Mother And Daughter To Friends" in 1999. Nancy was not invited to Jennifer's wedding with Pitt. However, Jennifer, who has started to understand her mom's behavior, with the divorce and other things that happened, confessed she reconciled with her. Jennifer tells Elle magazine: "I'm thrilled. It's so wonderful. And who knew that this (divorce) would be the thing to initiate this? It's amazing. It's like we get to reintroduce ourselves to each other. I'm just happy she's still here.", Jennifer confessed. "I'm not saying that there weren't issues that took place that led to this. But I really see now whether it was judging her on how she handled her separation or her situation, but they didn't have the advantages that we have with therapy, with self-help books", Aniston explained.
