Jennifer Lopez Claims Fame Is Ruining Her Career And Life

Latin diva Jennifer Lopez confessed her fame is ruining her career and personal life.

Latin diva Jennifer Lopez confessed her fame is ruining her career and personal life. Lopez claims she played only in B-rated films, like "Gigli" and "Jersey Girl" because the producers see her only as a sexy singer with a well-publicized personal life. Jennifer said: "In the beginning I was a blank slate. Then when I became famous I was being offered movies that I could star in but that's all. When I think I should be seeing the big directors, they don't even consider me. They see me as a sexy singer who is in the media too much." The latin diva also confessed she's thinking on quitting the show-business, at least for a while, to devote herself to her family. She explains: "Either you are going to be a bad mom and be a really good career woman and wife, or a good mom and career woman and bad wife, or a good mom and a good wife and your career is going to suck." A few days ago, it was reported that Lopez is six weeks pregnant and she already hired a LA designers to organize clothes for the possibly pregnant diva. An insider told America's Star magazine: "It's very top secret right now. She could be six to seven weeks gone".
