

13 October 2005

By: Entertainment News Staff, -

Jessica Alba Still Dreams to Be the Next Bond Girl

The Sin City actress confessed she grew up with the espionage thrillers

Jessica Alba would like the Bond movie-makers to take her into consideration, when they make a decision regarding the cast of the agent's love interest in the next movie. Alba confessed she grew up with the espionage thrillers and was particularly intrigued by 007's famous female conquests. The Sin City actress dreams to be the next Bond girl. "I'm a huge fan of Bond - ever since I was little", Alba said. "I've looked at Bond women as being the most drop-dead gorgeous in the world. I love the variety of them - they've been black and Asian and white and Eastern European and everything else", the actress revealed. Jessica Alba will next be seen opposite Hayden Christensen in a new psychological thriller called "Awake." The movie tells the story of a man (Hayden Christensen) who suffers "anesthetic awareness", waking up during an operation, with Jessica Alba playing his wife, who must face her own demons.