"The Dukes of Hazzard" actress Jessica Simpson confessed she was really impressed by Angelina Jolie when she first met her. Simpson declared Angelina was breathtaking and has an inner beauty that impressed her like nobody else. Jessica said: "Angelina is one of my biggest role models. I got to interview her recently. I didn't know her at all, but just sitting in front of her, I felt this incredible peace. She was breathtaking. I couldn't help but stare, but it's her inner beauty that you really feel." Simpson confessed that now she wants to focus on missionary work, to visit Third World countries and adopt children. Asked if she wants to have baby with her husband Nick Lackey, Jessica told OK! magazine: "If I got pregnant, I'd be ecstatic, but we're not trying. We're definitely practicing though! There's still so much stuff that we want to do together. We'd still like to do some mission work, visit Third World countries - I have this whole plan to save the world. I've been visiting orphanages with my parents since I was a little girl. That has taught me so much about friendship and family. I definitely want to adopt. I don't know if we'll do it first or after, but we will", Jessica added.
