Jordan and Paris Hilton, New Best Friends Forever

Feeling of admiration is mutual

Former glamour model Jordan, now known simply as Katie Price, is not only a singer, writer and fashion designer, as she will probably be soon to add yet another "title" to her belt - that of socialite extraordinaire. Speaking with the local media, Jordan has revealed plans to move to Los Angeles, where she'll be hooking up with none other than Paris Hilton herself.

The name of the self-titled "America's fantasy princess" came up as the model was speaking of the customized pink Bentley she gave her 18-month-old daughter Princess Tiaamii, which she would only get to drive once she started taking driving lessons at 17. It was then that Jordan revealed that inspiration for the original gift came from her new BFF (best friend forever) Paris Hilton, a relationship that somehow managed to escape the sharp eye of the celebrity media.&nbsp;

"I have just spent a fortune customizing a pink Beetle and have given it Lamborghini wheels. It's totally over the top but it will be great for Princess when she drives!" the usually talkative model gushed to the British reporters. "Paris Hilton has such an amazing Bentley." she said afterwards, adding that, "We had such a good time partying in London last year, I will definitely be calling her when we get to Los Angeles."

Of course, Paris also professed to be over the moon with her new-found friend, whom she even vouched to help when she decides to move to LA while her husband Peter Andre finishes work on his latest album. "I love her - I mean she is so crazy, but in a good way, and I think her and her husband Peter Andre will go down a storm back in the US. There's nothing quite like them over there." Paris is quoted as saying.&nbsp;

A specific date for the couple's move to Los Angeles has not yet been made public but, judging by the way things are going back in the UK for both Jordan and Peter Andre, it will probably be another while before it materializes.&nbsp;&nbsp;
