Kate Bush, Back On Stage After 12 Years

"I think about us lying, lying on a beach somewhere, I think about us diving, diving..."

Emi Records has recently announced that singer Kate Bush will release her new studio album on November 7th in the UK, and in the US one day later. The double album entitled Aerial is her first studio material in the last 12 years. The singer, whose last public appearance was in 2001, when she received Q magazine's "classic songwriter" award in London, will also release a single, King of the Mountain, on 24 October. Both the single and album are produced by Bush herself. The 47-year-old performer's last album, The Red Shoes, reached number two in the UK album chart in 1993. Kate Bush became famous in 1978 with her debut hit Wuthering Heights, which topped the UK chart for four weeks, followed by acclaimed debut album The Kick Inside, which sold over a million copies in the UK and had another Top Ten hit, "The Man With The Child In His Eyes." Her second album, 1978's Lionheart, wasn't quite as successful, but her third, 1980's Never For Ever, entered the charts at #1. Among her most famous music materials were "Babooshka", "Running Up That Hill", but also "Games Without Frontiers." and "Don't Give Up", sang with Peter Gabriel. "Running Up That Hill" was also her first US hit, reaching #30. In 1989 she returned with The Sensual World, another critically hailed album, featuring two US Modern Rock hits, "Love and Anger" and the title track. She only released one album in the '90s, 1993's The Red Shoes. It featured another US Modern Rock Hit, "Rubberband Girl." Since then, many artists including Tori Amos, PJ Harvey and Goldfrapp stated they were influenced by Kate Bush. "I'm so pleased with everyone's work on this record. There are some lovely performances and I hope you will all feel it's been worth the wait. Bertie keeps me very busy, he is so much fun", Kate said in December 2004. Known contributors to the new album include Mick Karn, drummer Stuart Elliott and jazz percussionist Peter Erskine. The late Michael Kamen wrote the string arrangements for two tracks which will appear on the new album - she recorded what she has described as "some beautiful orchestral movements" with him and the London Metropolitan Orchestra at Abbey Road in October 2003. Chris Hall has played accordion on one track. Classical musicians Emma Murphy and Susanna Pell have also recorded for the album. Del Palmer is said to be engineering. Kate has had her new recording studio serviced and upgraded and started recording in late 1999.
