MTV and VH1 will broadcast Live 8

The Live 8 concerts, organized by Bob Geldof, the founder of Live Aid, will air on MTV, VH1 and MTV's college networks

The Live 8 concerts, organized by Bob Geldof, the founder of Live Aid, will air on MTV, VH1 and MTV's college networks, as well as on AOL, XM Satellite Radio and Premiere Radio Networks. Singers expected at this show are U2, Coldplay, Madonna, Dave Matthews Band, Jay-Z, Destiny's Child, Bon Jovi, Linkin Park, Maroon 5 and many others. MTV and VH1 will telecast eight hours of the Live 8 concerts on July 2, the networks said Wednesday. Related networks CMT and VH1 Classic will air concert highlights the next day featuring artists geared to their audiences, reports Boston.com.
