

21 June 2006

By: Elena Gorgan, Entertainment News Editor

Michelle Rodriguez Is Going on a Man Hunt

The actress admittedly has got the hots for Colin Farrell

Ex 'Lost' star came out clear of her encounters with the law, escaped time in jail and is now determined to get herself a new man. Apparently, she has her eyes set on Ireland's hottest Colin Farrell, with whom she starred in S.W.A.T and kept in touch regularly. It's no wonder, considering that both share the same temperament and indulgence in addictive (and, at times, forbidden) substances. Rodriguez is quoted by 'The Sun' to have said 'I have my eye on him', adding for further reference that the kind of man that appeals to her is a free-spirited one, who is not afraid of running naked with her on the beach, no matter how many persons may be looking at them. That would be indeed a pretty sight...We are at a loss right at this moment, as 'In Touch Weekly' just reported that Rodriguez may have her eyes on Colin but that she is actually chasing none other than Kyle Minogue's French boyfriend, Olivier Martinez. A witness saw them going at it in a club in L.A, only last week, truly acting like they were a couple. And that comes only days later after Kyle's comeback into the spotlight, following her treatment for breast cancer. It seems that Michelle has been seeing a lot of Olivier lately as another source reports that the two had a very quiet and intimate dinner at the Chateau Marmont a few weeks ago. If rumors turn out to be true, Rodriguez might have to answer the wrath of petite, but fiery Kyle.