

23 November 2006

By: Marius Oiaga, Technology News Editor

Microsoft Introduces GamesForWindows

Focusing on the most popular gaming platform worldwide

Quality, compatibility, safety and the promise of relaxed playing experiences are the attributes Microsoft is applauding in the newly debuted GamesForWindows. "What is Games for Windows? It's a promise of games that deliver the best experience on Windows, bar none," reveals Microsoft. Just in time for the Holiday season, and with Windows Vista knocking at the door, Microsoft is focusing on the most popular gaming platform on the planet. "Microsoft and some of the gaming industry's biggest names have worked together to make the gaming experience on Windows better than ever. And Games for Windows is the result," added the Redmond Company. GamesForWindows aims to be a source of games, hardware and information related to the LIVE gaming and entertainment network. The website additionally offers a Game Advisor and a Magazine and access to the Windows gaming community that Microsoft aims to centralize via GamesForWindows. "Games for Windows branded titles undergo extensive testing, and not just by the publisher. Microsoft also invests in quality checking each title to ensure they meet performance and reliability standards. Games for Windows branded titles work on Windows XP and Windows Vista PCs, including both 32 and 64 bit editions," informed Microsoft. Additionally, users will be able to access extensive support via GamesForWindows, everything from Website Support to Game Advisor, Game Specific and even hardware support.