

7 January 2008

By: Monica Gaza, Entertainment News Editor

Too much sex will leave you looking like that Dlisted

More About Sex with Lohan

Lindsay just keeps going at it...

I think I'm having a crush on Lindsay Lohan. OK, that didn't come out right - let's try again: what I was trying (and failing, apparently) to say was that I'm beginning to like Lindsay Lohan. No, I'm not talking about her face, the way she dresses or the fact that she really enjoys exposing her a*s to the cameras a little more often than advisable (what with her being a celebrity and all that). I'm talking about the fact that Lindsay is fast becoming an official slut who's not afraid of her own status and who really seems to be enjoying her little sexploits... which are one of the world's worst-kept secrets anyway. I always used to mock Hollywood celebs for their hypocrisy, and here's Lilo not giving a damn about the fact that everybody knows she's been sleeping with guys left, right and center... all over the world. Now if that's not some real slut pride, I don't know what is. Trouble is, there are still some guys out there (OK, many guys out there) who'd basically do anything to go to bed with the boozing actress, and would then sell the whole story just because. I know banging LiLo may seem as an achievement at some point, but in the end I for one suspect that there's nothing too special about it. And if every week we get to read at least one story about another guy who stepped forward and told the world what Lindsay was like in bed, you may see that LiLo's slutty way may leave the realm of speculation and become cold-hard fact. So, barely a week after Lindsay's ex-boyfriend Riley Giles sold his story to the press, here comes another one. Rock drummer Alessandro Di Nunzio is one of the guys LiLo slept with while in Italy, having met him barely a couple of hours before hitting the sack - and I don't think anyone is surprised to learn that he quickly sold... I mean told his story to the media. But hey, there's always room to talk about LiLo, especially if a guy is willing to share the fact that he went all Roman on her face. Great job, Linds! Apparently, LiLo and Alessandro had sex six hours after they met - after having diner together and LiLo getting drunk fast on vodka and cranberry juice. Oops - I guess that whole "falling off the wagon" thing was a little more serious than a gulp of champagne straight from the bottle on New Year's Eve. Who would ever have guessed... "Lindsay was very, very good and surprisingly experienced. She wanted to do everything, every position. She was extremely flexible and adventurous" this guy apparently stated. Yes, we sort of imagined the "surprisingly experienced" part, but I think there's a better name for it. "After boldly taking her clothes off she dived under the covers. I sensed she was insecure about her gorgeous body. It was very passionate and intense and lasted for one hour, maybe more. She adored kissing and never wanted to stop-no matter what we were doing" Alessandro also added in his interview. I think that the diving under the covers was a sign that she wanted to get on with doing the nasty. LiLo ashamed of her own body? How about being ashamed of sexing a guy after knowing him for, like, 5 seconds? Wait - is that a reason to feel ashamed? I guess I'm a bit confused. Well, I'll wait until the next guy comes along with a story about sex with Lindsay - and then we'll talk some more.