Natalie Portman Is Womanly Perfection

The 'Star Wars' little star twinkles in Audrey Hepburn's dress

Natalie Portman is probably among the very few young women celebrities who, according to her own words, are not willing to shed her clothes for fame. The young actress has always been praised for her style, grace and beauty, besides being acknowledged as a serious actress. Not related to Natalie being such a hottie, the dress that Audrey Hepburn, another iconic starlet, wore in the classic 'Breakfast at Tiffany's' is to be auctioned. The owner of the sexy and now emblematic black gown decided to sell it and have the proceeds donated to charity. Besides, it's not like anybody would be able to fit into it... Enter Natalie. The actress is also of very small proportions, but still, when 'Harper's Bazaar' asked her to take a photo shoot wearing the black little dress, she was somehow reluctant for fear that she would not fit into it. 'I did feel very elegant suddenly. I mean, you can't possibly measure up to Audrey Hepburn; there's no comparison. But the elegance that she exuded was transmitted to the dress, you know, the feeling, the emotion of it... I was so nervous that I wasn't going to fit. Everyone kept telling me how small it was, and I'm not the type who can starve myself. I'm small, but it's not like I'm see-through', the actress said in the accompanying interview. She is, indeed, elegant and beautiful and everything else nice that you hear about her. Natalie is, as we have already said, womanly perfection. She can certainly teach a couple of publicity-mad celebrities out there a thing or two about style...
