Need for Speed Underground 2 Cheats \(PS2\)

How to become a true race driver

EA Sports will never cease to amaze us with its splendid car racing games and the Need for Speed series seems to have more titles than the huge Final Fantasy series. Each new year means a new game, new cars, tunings, race tracks and innovations brought to the whole driving experience. Nitrous and drifts are two concepts that have just entered the NFS family and they are here to stay...maybe forever. A rushed gamer would surely want to unlock as many new cars as possible, so we provide you cheats for that. Since money makes the world go round, you'll probably want some cash too, so let's get straight to the tips and tricks part: Miscellaneous Codes Enter this code at the Title Screen: Left, Left, Right, Square, Square, Right, L1, R1 - $1000 in career. They often have colored shapes (yellow triangles etc.) to guide the way to the shops or other important buildings. Also, look for streetlights casting a colored glow. This indicates that there is a shop near by. NFS Underground 2 Secrets Get Nitrous quick To quickly fill up your Nitrous meter before a race, simply turn while holding down the handbrake and accelerate and you will do a 360, which gives you 400 points. You can do this up to three times. Cool Hydraulics Move Going at medium speed, start trying to drive in a circle. Every half turn, press R1. Keep doing this about 6 or so spins, the driver will automatically go and do some sick hydro moves. The camera will also change position. NFS Underground 2 Glitches Hydraulics + Hangtime After you have equipped your car (or SUV) with Hydraulics (Level 1, 2, or 3 will work), pull up to another vehicle or a wall and hold the R1 button and move your Left Analog Stick up and down in a rhythmic fashion to get your car rocking up and down (not bouncing). If you are close enough to the obstacle in front of you, your car will shoot straight up into the air, sometimes doing outrageous flips and spins. Once airborne, release all the buttons, and if your car has soared into the sky parallel with the ground, "Hangtime" points will start to add up, sometimes 400+ Not very purposeful, but rather hilarious to watch. At the very least, you are refilling your nitrous/racebraker. Works in Online mode also.

Pop a wheelie (or a reverse wheelie) Once your vehicle's Hydraulics have been upgraded to Level 3, if you are in a rear-wheel-drive vehicle, get your front end to bounce continuously by double tapping and then holding the R1 button (handbrake) and pushing up on the Left Analog Stick a few times. You should now be able to release the R1 button and your RWD car (or SUV) should continue to bounce its front end. Having your transmission set to manual for best results, rev your motor all the way up and then shift into 1st gear. If your timing was right, your car will surge forward and pop a wheelie at the same time. Using nitrous once you shift into 1st gear will give you better results and may allow you to shift gears a few times before your car's front end drops back to the ground. You may flip over backwards if you take off too fast. With a front-wheel-drive car, simply get the rear hydraulics of your car bouncing and use reverse to pop a wheelie going backwards. You may have to rock your car back and forth by switching between forward and reverse throttle, but with the right touch, your FWD car should be able to do this trick also (going backwards of course), even though much less dramatic compared to going forward in a RWD car. You can have your car flip over in reverse also, or it may stand on its nose. This is not very purposeful, besides having other players (online) wondering how you popped a wheelie off the line. Sometimes you can "jump" over other cars using this glitch, but during a race, you probably will not have enough time to go through all the steps. It's worth a few laughs at least, and as said before, it will keep other players (online) wondering...

Combining regular or hood vinyls with unique vinyls.

1. Clear all the vinyls off your car or set the vinyls up exactly the way you want WITHOUT using any uniques.
2. Once you have the regular or hood vinyls set up the way you want, install them.
3. Go back into the vinyls menu and select the Unique vinyl you want and install it. Once you install it, both the unique and regular vinyls will be installed at the same time. This allows you to combine the unique vinyls that actually look good, with at least some sort of hood vinyls or body vinyls that make it a complete set. This also raises your car's Star level higher than using just regulars or just uniques, so it makes it far easier to get to 10 stars.

Camera Glitch When you crash into a car, you will be presented with a slow motion cinematic display. Press the "Start" button to enter the pause menu, pressing the button again will resume the game, but this time you will see the camera change positions (behind the car) and you'll still be in slow motion. This can be used to your advantage, however, as this command is entered you can avoid tumbling, or tilting the car, and land safely back on the blacktop.
