

26 July 2006

By: Elena Gorgan, Entertainment News Editor

Pamela Anderson, Still In Love With Tommy Lee

Why can't she just settle for one man?

On the eve of her long expected marriage to Kid Rock, rumored to take place this week on board of a friend's yacht, Pamela has some confessions to make. Which are very surely not to be on her future husband's liking. The former 'Baywatch' siren claims that she still loves her first husband, Montley Crue member, Tommy Lee. She was married for three years with him (1995-1998) and together they have two children. Apparently, the starlet claims that she is still very close to Tommy and that she will love him as long as she lives. 'If you loved somebody once, how could you not love them anymore?', Contactmusic quoted Pamela as saying. The future bride must have forgotten that, immediately after she split from the rocker, they both started bitching around by claiming that they had taken venereal diseases from each other. If that's not real love, we don't know what is... Besides, Pammy has another wacky idea about who's going to be her bridesmaid in her future nuptials with Kid Rock. And she thought that Rock's ex-girlfriend, Tamara Mellon, would do just fine for the part. No word yet if Tamara accepted the offer of playing such an important role in the wedding ceremony.