

10 February 2006

By: Adina Gheorghe, Entertainment Editor

Pamela Anderson to Make a Guest Appearance in the Big Screen "Baywatch"

The sex-bomb will film a cameo in the new "Baywatch" movie possibly along with Carmen Electra, Erika Eleniak, Yasmine Bleeth and Traci Bingham

Sex-bomb Pamela Anderson is set to make a cameo appearance in the forthcoming movie spin-off of TV soap opera "Baywatch". Pamela Anderson, who starred in the lifeguard show from the early 1990s, is now being lined up by David Hasselhoff to appear in the big screen version alongside other "Baywatch" cast mates. Among the appearing lifeguard beauty, the upcoming movie could also include Carmen Electra, Erika Eleniak, Yasmine Bleeth and Traci Bingham. The movie's director Eli Roth says: "Pammy and the original girls will most likely do cameos in the movie. For the main cast, they want to go with a new crop of hotties. The other producers spoke to Pamela about it and she said she'd love to do a cameo. For me, it just wouldn't be Baywatch without her." Hasselhoff informs about the location of the shooting: "The film will be set in different locations around the world. There will be lifeguards who are also sent on crime-busting sprees."