The UK hottest couple, Pete Doherty and Kate Moss, split up, after the beautiful supermodel dumped Pete, arguing she cannot stand his way of life anymore, always worrying about him. On July 22, 2005, Pete Doherty was involved into a street fight. British newspapers The Sun and Daily Mirror reports that Pete and musician friend Alan Wass fought with a group of Somali youths after they shouted "crackhead" at him. Farid Khan of Supersave store in Camden Town, said: "The singer ran in pursued by six man. There was a big fight. We got them out but they hurled a brick at the door." Kate reportedly told friends: "I can't go on spending day and night worrying about Pete. He would disappear without a word and I would not hear from him for days. He has to change his lifestyle. Until that happens we are finished." A spokesman for London police headquarters Scotland Yard says: "We were called to reports of an altercation. A man was arrested." Pete Doherty, born March 12, 1979 in Hexham, Northumberland, UK, is co-frontman and songwriter with Carl Barat, of British punk and garage rock revivalists The Libertines. He is currently the frontman for the band Babyshambles. Since 2003, Doherty has become known to the public at large as a result of his addiction to drugs and his recent relationship with model Kate Moss. Doherty was expelled from The Libertines as a result of erratic behavior caused by his drug addiction. In the summer of 2003, Kill City vocalist Lisa Moorish gave birth to Astile, Doherty's child. In present, Doherty is undergoing a rehabilitation treatment using Naltroxene, which prevents the opiates in heroin from causing "high", after four or five failed drug rehabilitation attempts.
