

By: Felipe Bryant Apple News Editor

Pink and Smoke Titan Clear Cases for iPhone

Not messing in any way with the iPhone's already sexy design

Following GizMac's introducing Aluminate and DuraSport cases for 3G iPod nanos, the designer and manufacturer of innovative "Gizmos for Your Lifestyle" has just added color to its lineup of Titan iPhone cases. In order to please both gender owners of the Apple phone, Smoke and Pink Titan Clear cases are now available for $34.99. GizMac reveals that "Smoke is a form of black that appears darkest on the curves, yet can exhibit an almost pewter look on the front and back in bright light," while "Pink is slightly luminescent and can be considered a 'hot' pink." Bright light will show some red with traces of orange too. Titan Clear cases are made from a tough, crystal clear polycarbonate shell that protects your iPhone, which can be used both alone and with the rotating holster. But that's nothing compared to the retractable/adjustable (horizontal and vertical) built-in kickstands for viewing movies, videos, calls and messages from the angle that feels best to your eyes. Leaving aside that the Titan Clear case doesn't in any way obstruct user access to controls, camera and headphones, GizMac's latest introduced accessory also doesn't hide the beauty of the Apple's iPhone itself, allowing its appearance to show through the entire case. GizMac Accessories, LLC is headquartered in the United States. It designs and manufactures innovative "Gizmos for Your Lifestyle," as the company's motto goes, being dedicated to providing solutions and support for the iPod & iPhone communities around the world. The company's Titan accessories lineup offers cases including: Titan Clear for iPhone, Titan Clear for iPod, Titan Gear and Titan Metal. The company has mostly been tight with Apple since releasing the first accessories for the iPod, and has even been showing off its accessories at MacWorld, in San Francisco, for three consecutive years now. Check out the images above for a glimpse at the Titan Clear iPhone cases available today.