Pro Evolution Soccer 4 Unlockables and Goal Collection \(PS2\)

One tough rival for the FIFA series

Pro Evolution Soccer 4 (Winning Eleven 8 in Japan) was released in 2004; featuring referee Pierluigi Collina, Thierry Henry and Francesco Totti on the cover; this was the first Pro Evolution Soccer game to feature full leagues, including French, German, Spanish, Italian and Dutch top divisions, with full league licenses for the latter three, although it pales in comparison to FIFA's lower division licenses. The gameplay has improved from Pro Evolution Soccer 3, (though not as much of a significant leap from its predecessor) with improved AI, tweaked play-on advantages and better throughballs. Dribbling is tighter with the players, plus free-kicks have been changed to allow lay-offs. The gameplay was criticized for its easy scoring opportunities, commonly passing along in the area usually gave way a clear cut chance. A new 6-star difficulty was added as an unlockable in the shop, as well as the previous items, while the Master League included enhancements such as player development, so many players over 30 would see certain attributes decline as the game progresses. The edit mode has been enhanced rapidly, with the options to add text and logos to shirts (essentially sponsors) and pixel logo editing as well as the traditional preset shapes, thus making it easier to replicate a team. Bizarrely however, the ability to select striped or hooped shirts in edit mode is left out. Easter Eggs Trevor's voice Load up the game and press any button at the title screen. Leave the game on the main menu for a few minutes until it goes back to the intro sequence. Watch or skip the intro to go back to the main title screen again. Trevor Brooking should now say Pro Evolution Soccer 4 instead of Peter Brackly. Secrets Create a Dream Team (And Use It In ML) Load up your game as usual, then remove your memory card and go to Edit mode. Choose Edit Team and pick a team that you never use (I suggest PES United or the other team next to it). Register whatever players you want from whatever club (ie, move Ronaldo from Real Madrid to your team), edit their kit, name, everything. At some point, you will have to get rid of the original players in the team; just register them to a different club, don't worry what club because this won't affect your game. When you have created the dream team, exit Edit Mode, if you removed your memory card like I said, it will not auto-save on exit, then start Master League with MAch Mode teams. Once your season has begun, save the ML data, and if you want to use the team in Match Mode, save your Best XI. Then simply re-load your Game Data, leaving you with a Master League season of your Dream Team, and a Best XI of the same team. Using this method, you will not mess up any realistic transfers etc. It takes a top class player to score Eurogoals! We've got a collection of beautiful PES4 goals in the video below:
