Sex Tape Veterans Pammy and Rick Get an Annulment

The couple's marriage has officially been declared null and void

Sex tape veteran couple made up of Pammy Anderson and Rick Salomon is officially history. The buxom blonde and the professional poker player ended their brief interlude as husband and wife yesterday, when the pair was granted an annulment of their short-lived marriage. Rumors of the couple's divorce first came out in December, when Pammy filed for a proper divorce - but later changed her mind and filed for an annulment, with ex hubby Rick doing the same a short while afterwards. When it came to stating the reason for which they wanted to declare their marriage null and void, both Anderson and her ex checked the box for "fraud". There's no official explanation on what that might mean, but there is a rumor going round according to which Pammy allegedly promised Salomon they will have kids together. At the time when their separation became public, there was much speculation about Pamela being pregnant. However, a short while later Salomon claims she was "no longer pregnant", implying that the Baywatch starlet had had an abortion. About the same time, Pammy's website, which hosted her personal blog, mysteriously went down and the actress stopped keeping her fans up to speed with whatever was going on in her life. Given that Salomon was recently spotted with another lady friend in tow, it's pretty obvious life goes on for the former pair. Since Pammy once admitted she began sleeping with Salomon in order to square off a poker debt, it was pretty obvious that their relationship wasn't exactly built on a solid foundation of mutual respect and understanding. Of course, neither partner had a clean track record as far as relationships were concerned. It was the third marriage for both Salomon and Pammy herself. Each of the two had been featured in a widely publicized sex tape scandal, and while to some it looked like a match made in (sex tape) heaven, to others it was a disaster waiting to happen. However, it's all water under the bridge now, and we're all looking forward to seeing who will fill in the position of "Mr. Anderson number 4". Any guesses?
