Sexy and Un-Sexy: the Good, the Strange and the Hot

Have a look and give us your thoughts

There's something in the air this week... some sort of "top mania" or something else along those lines, as everybody who's anybody is publishing the results of their polls and is generously sharing titles such as "sexiest woman alive", "sexiest couple" and so on to the A-listers of the celebrity world. The good people at AskMen did so just yesterday, and introduced us to the Top 99 Most Desirable Women, and now Victoria's Secret is quickly following in their footsteps, dishing out titles that have to do with sexy... everything.

Sexy legs, eyes, smile, beach body... you name it, they have it. Only trouble is, if the 99 desirable ladies top pretty much made sense (in the end, it's all a matter of personal taste), Victoria's Secret third annual "What Is Sexy?" list is pretty confusing – and slightly controversial. So, out of curiosity, we had a good look at who was who on the said list and came up with our own comments and suggestions – just for fun, of course, and with a desire to share some of our own critical input on the matter. Don't take either the original list or our comments too seriously – as I was saying, opinions are subjective and taste is an expression of everyone's intimate perception of themselves and the world. So here goes – enjoy:
