Sharon Stone Has a Romantic Relationship with Craig Ferguson

Stone happy again

Actress Sharon Stone was spotted during the past weeks dating comedian Craig Ferguson. Sharon, 47, met Ferguson, 42, on the set of his US chat show, 'The Late Late Show', where they performed together "Ye Cannae Shove Yer Granny Aff A Bus" together. Since then, they were seen dating at meals and friends say they are keeping in close touch. Both Sharon and Craig are divorced and have young children. A friend of the couple, who shares the same publicist, revealed: "They are keeping things very quiet but they get on like a house on fire. It isn't everyone who can get Sharon singing on TV, that's for sure - never mind singing a daft Scottish song about someone's grandma." The friend added to Scotland's Sunday Mail newspaper: "They have a lot in common and both of them are getting used to life as single people again after being married." Ferguson's mother, Janet, confirmed they are good friends, but didn't comment if they are lovers or not. She said: "They became friends when she was on his show. It's a sad day when you can't go out for a meal with someone without it being blown out of proportion, but that's America for you."
