

By: ~~Rita 2008~~ Deduleasa, Communications News Editor

Something for Everyone from Orange

New TV channels available

Orange, the leader in delivering TV to mobile communication devices keeps improving the system by offering instant access to more than 60 live channels and more videos than ever before. Since December, when Orange TV/Video on mobile was launched, the system has already gained over 2 million customers in France and gathered 51 million viewers on the Orange World portal last year. The company has more than 30 000 Wi-Fi hotspots only in France. The new channel list is quite amazing, as it seems to satisfy any need of the mobile owner. For better entertaining, the mobile users will be able to watch Eurosport 1 and 2, TMC, Jet, OMTV, and Guilli that will surely give everything the kids enjoy like: cartoons, fiction, games and programs. Orange is going to have a tremendous success in the industry as it is going to hit the market with more than 60 channels, and 3000 videos reaching the highest peak in the branch. Everybody that has a mobile phone is going to be free to choose from national channels, TNT channels for classical movies and more themed channels than ever. The company is preparing to offer both information and entertainment. News, comedy, sport, cartoons, cinema, adult, TV series and net videos for every taste, for every eye. Moreover, as we remember, last year, Orange bought out an HD mobile TV offering that is guaranteed to offer exceptionally high-quality image and far more improved viewing comfort than ever before. To make the accessing process easier, the company offers many handy options like: TV options, total TV options, total HD mobile TV options, Sport option for the major sports events, music options that is going to offer both TV and radio music channels and extra videos on demand. The prices seem reasonable, starting at 6 Euro package for the entertainment content and raising up to 12 Euros a month for the extended one. As Orange has reported more than 3.6 million high-speed mobile consumers, it is not hard to foresee future successes.