

By: Elyse Morgan, Entertainment News Editor

Star Jones Could Use Some More Plastic Surgery

If she had them lifted, she should do something about that scar, too

A few days ago, on July 22 to be more precise, 'View'-less star Star Jones attended the 8th Annual Hollyrod Design Cure, without her better self, we might as well add. Lately, Star is as unfortunate in her fashion choices as she has been in her TV hosting career. After losing considerable weight and having massive plastic surgery, she still can't seem to be able to look hot on camera, no matter how hard she tries. Maybe, that's because she's never been and will never be pretty looking...But to wear such a low cut cleavage when that horrible T-scar from breast lifting surgery is still showing is absolutely appalling! We might only hope, as a last solution, that now that she has no job, she will have the time to have it 'corrected'.