

By Georgios, Communications News Editor

T-Mobile Introduces the myFaves Service

The users will be able to make unlimited calls to the five persons they add to the myFaves plan list.

The multinational German mobile phone carrier T-Mobile released its newest service for the customers, the myFaves plan, that enables the users to make unlimited phone calls to five favorite people. The catch is that this service can be used even if some friend of yours has a different carrier or you want to call him on his home landline. This is not an issue for the T-Mobile myFaves plan, because the German mobile phone operator has adopted a new slogan that says that "you don't choose your friends by which phone company they use!". The five friends a user can add to myFaves list can be changed directly from the mobile phone or with the help of the My T-Mobile online interface, and can be switched with other persons if they entered the disgrace list once per month. Unfortunately, there is an important drawback in T-Mobile's fantastic unlimited phone call: the users that want to use the myFaves plan must know this is a service usable only on certain handsets that have a special firmware. The users might consider to change to some other mobile phone if they think about the fact that they will be able to call their five best friends whenever they want and talk all day long if they want to, with service prices starting at 40 $ monthly.