The Roll-up Piano Keyboard
Hammacher Schlemmer

The Roll-up Piano is the perfect toy for those who are looking for extreme portability when it comes to keyboards. Despite its rather toy-ish character, this musical gadget can be a very good solution for those pro players who are having a hard time being separated from their piano during vacations and the likes; and in case they're willing to play and have fun at the same time. Or if you're looking for a musical toy for your kids, easy to carry with you on vacation or during a short picnic outing, this Roll-up Piano Keyboard could be one of the best solutions. We must say that a flexible keyboard is the thing that has drawn our attention in the first place. And the fact that you can fold it until it fits in your pocket was even better. This portable and flexible piano keyboard is in fact a piece of neoprene (the material wetsuits are made from), which is highly flexible and can be easily rolled up into a small pack on which you get 49 soft rubber keys covering no less than 4 octaves, from C3 to C6. This keyboard comes with sensitive pressure sensors allowing you to play with just gentle touches and eliminating fatigue usually associated with this kind of toys. Polyphony features also allow you to play as much as 10 notes simultaneously thus the Roll-up Piano Keyboard is ideal for duets or for serious chording. Attached you get a small case containing the 4 AAA battery compartment, small speakers and tone controls; of course, you also have a volume control and an output jack to connect your headphones to or to have your sounds sent to an external amplifier. The sound processor will put 100 tones and rhythms at your fingertips and it also sports a learn-and-follow mode. You can even store performance sessions 52-notes long, helping you remember the chorus of your future hit. The Roll-up Piano Keyboard comes with a special carrying case and retails for under \$80. A neat and interesting gift for the forthcoming holidays.
