Tony Danza Blasts Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes

Danza: "Here's a guy out there lecturing people about drugs, but out of wedlock births don't seem to bother him."

American actor and former boxer Tony Danza blasted Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes for having a child without being married. Danza, 54, probably best-known for his appearance in the TV sitcom "Who's the Boss?", declared he considers Tom a hypocrite, because he preaches about not using medications and is against psychiatry and immoral behaviors, when he's the one who lives an immoral life, making babies without being married. The talk show host says: "I'm a little upset about this. Here's a guy out there lecturing people about drugs, but out of wedlock births don't seem to bother him. He's never (appearing on) my show, so it doesn't matter." He adds: "I'm happy for them, but we're going to send them to MAURY (POVICH's show) for a DNA test. Twice-married Cruise, 43, and Holmes, 26, met in April 2005. After only two months of dating, Tom proposed Katie at the Eiffel Tower in Paris. And yesterday, the happy couple announced they're already expecting a child. The wedding date has not yet been confirmed. This will be Katie's first child and Tom's third. Cruise is currently sharing custody with his ex-wife, actress Nicole Kidman, to whom he was married from December 24, 1990 until August 8, 2001, of two adopted children, Isabella (born 1993) and Connor (born 1995).
