Update on Victoria's Inexistent Pregnancy

David's knowledge of Spanish is so limited that he just said 'Si' without knowing what he was talking about

Victoria Beckham is not pregnant with the couple's fourth child, after all! It was all just a simple misunderstanding, starting from the fact that, well, David's knowledge of Spanish is rather limited to a few simple phrases. Apparently, when the woman reporter asked him how his wife and his new baby were doing and he answered 'Si', he really thought that she was asking him about his wife and his already existent three boys. And, David claims, he was too busy signing autographs to pay that much attention to the woman's words. Is anybody else wondering why he would answer 'Yes' to such a question? The couple's publicist denied the pregnancy rumors in today's issue of 'People' Magazine, saying about Posh Spice: 'She's not pregnant. It's as simple as that'. But a friend of the couple added that, although the Beckhams would die to have a little baby girl, this is just not the right moment to conceive one, professionally speaking, of course. 'Victoria has always wanted a larger family and especially would like a sister for the boys, but the time is not right just yet. She's doing designing work, there is a perfume, sunglasses and a TV show in the works. There is just too much going on for her to consider becoming pregnant at the time', the source told 'People'.
