SexSearch.com Adult Personals has been getting more traffic than the 101 freeway on Labor Day weekend. They may not be the number one adult dating site, but with countless mentions on veteran porn star Jenna Jameson and the Howard Stern Show they hope to surpass their predecessors. As more and more people are breaking away from the conventional way of finding a compatible bed mate, mankind enters the new age of technological dating. Laptops, PDA's and palm pilots are all the artillery one needs to get a hot night of fornication. Apparently, SexSearch.com Adult personals are on the forefront of this new renaissance in adult dating, with more than 4 million registered members. Jenna, the famous porn star who used to get five-figure fees for one evening's striptease, is the sure path to six-figure film contracts for the company one builds. Porn goddess Jenna Jameson (formerly Massoli) is the star of countless adult films, magazines, and strip clubs, but also the CEO of ClubJenna Inc., her film production and online licensing company. Her latest product, "How To Make Love Like A Porn Star" is an autobiography in the form of an angry outburst interspersed with backlog from her life's ricochets, including a sample adult film contract, entries from her diary, comics, and the sprawling transcript from a family reunion. Jenna knew how to make her way to the top. She went from being a drug-addled teenager in a slowly disintegrating family to the star attraction at a prominent Vegas strip club, where she danced for celebrities and took home several thousand in cash each night. The club was the place where Jenna met Jack, a biker tattoo artist, with whom she managed to keep up with a vibrantly destructive relationship for years. After posing for adult photographers and starring in a handful of adult films, she tried to give up drugs and walked into the offices of Steve Orenstein at Wicked Pictures, and said that her ambition was to become the biggest porn star in the world. Now she leads a top multimedia company which sells hundreds of thousands of copies of films it produces and countless downloads of video clips. Jenna also became the manager of more than a dozen porn stars, who dream of having such a great career in the business. Jameson, who ranked as the 50th most popular actress in the country by the IMDb "STARmeter" poll, which provides a snapshot of popularity based on millions of web searches, is just behind Gwyneth Patrow (44), Julia Roberts (46) and Tara Reid (48), outranking the next five celebrities on the list, Jodie Foster, Naomi Watts, Britney Spears, Sandra Bullock and Halle Berry. Her best-selling recent adult hits were Jenna Jameson is the Masseuse and Bella Loves Jenna. "I'm thrilled to have been included in this great group of people," she said at the time. "This ranking demonstrates that the public seems to have absolutely no problem with adult entertainment and its convergence with mainstream", Jameson added. The porn muse is happily married to producer Jay Grdina and looks forward to retirement and motherhood.
